

"Old Bill"— A McGill Tradition

Before the year is through Bill Gentleman and his office will be the information and sales booths for everything from the dean's office to the "Forge." Therefore, for the benefit of our Freshettes and Freshmen, we shall attempt to give a picture of Bill Gentleman, the perennial "landmark" of McGill.

Bill is the man who knows the University better than anyone on or around the Campus. He can direct you to the Observatory (which we ourselves can't find as yet) or tell you who was associate professor of Oology in 1923.

We asked him about this year's new crop. The freshmen, he thought, were conspicuously plentiful by virtue of their green bows and ribbons. He had no complaints about them though he did think of the "good old days" when...

For instance, Bill reminisced, there was one day when the upper classmen, with their trousers rolled up one leg and their coats turned inside out, took a number of freshmen, chained them together with a rope, undressed them partially, and marched them to a downtown theatre. They entered by the stage door, marched on to the stage, and all the Fresh sang 'Hail Alma Mater.' They received quite an ovation from the audience.

Later they walked along St. Catherine street to Bleury street, where, forming a circle around the policeman, they sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," bought him a box of cigars, and then proceeded back to the campus. Here the upper classmen took off the Freshmen's shoes and heaped them around the "Three Bares." Freshmen were left to unchain themselves and find their shoes.

Bill was thoughtful for a moment, but then resumed: "The upper classmen decided to invade the English 2 class. I heard of this and locked the doors, went in and told the Freshmen to escape by the side door. This they did and led by—I think his name was John Hutchins—they came to the front and attacked the upper classmen. When Sir Arthur Currie tried to stop them it was quite disastrous because they broke the ornament on the front portals."

"The upper classmen took 'revenge,'" Bill continued. "They partially 'undressed' a freshman and tied him to the Roddick Gates with a sign 'All women are requested to kiss me.' This resulted in a large number of letters to the editor, so they cut out the rough stuff after that."

Then ended the roughhouse days, and in came the days where we welcome the Freshmen with numerous activities to which only Freshmen (of all people) are invited.

Now for a word about Bill Gentleman's history at McGill. He came here in the spring of 1908 and started work as an electrician. During the summers, he was Sexton at Trinity Church. He later occupied almost every other position on the University grounds. In 1909 he came to "Bill Gentleman's office," where he has remained ever since. He is now an integral part of the university as the Principal himself.

Forge Issues Request For Literary Articles

The Forge, McGill's literary magazine, has announced that it would like to have literary efforts contributed by any students. These should be left in the Union Tuck-Shop by Nov. 17.

This year, The Forge proposes to publish two issues containing satire, poetry, and, conventional prose; as well it especially wants a number of pieces of experimental prose.

Due to its increasing importance at McGill, The Forge is to have an office in the Union for the forthcoming year. Any further information may be obtained either there or from the Editor-in-chief, Bob Simpson.

Change Coed Service Plan

All Women Partake in Training Program

All women students at the University are required to take part in the War Service Training Program. The course to be given this year for first year students has been remodelled and will deal with problems which may have to be faced in the present emergency.

Those co-eds who have as yet not registered for this compulsory course are urged to do so at once. All freshmen should apply at the Registrars Office to be registered for the Women's War Training Program. Women students desiring to take supplemental examinations in courses which they failed in last year, may do so without charge next Thursday, October 9, at 3.00 p.m. in the Royal Victoria College. A pass in these examinations is required if the student concerned means to proceed to an advanced course. Failure would mean taking the course prescribed for first year students.

Plan for Physical Training
A course in physical training has also been planned for all students and first year students are required to register for a two hour course per week. This is a basic course and is fundamental to all other courses which are arranged progressively for the benefit of all students in the upper years. The course will be given in the R.V.C. Assembly Hall.

The first year course will include lectures on first aid and will follow the general St. John's Ambulance Association Course. The course will be of nine weeks duration and will be given by Miss M. Mathewson and assistants. In the second term a course in Emergency problems will be given, including Air Raid Precautions—of which the R.V.C. blackout was a feature last year—as well as medical aid to the injured.

Co-eds in the Upper Years are required to register, at the Secretary's Office, R.V.C., on October 8th and 9th, for the alternative courses which eligible students may pursue. Early registration is required as some courses will be restricted in size. The alternative courses which 2nd, 3rd and 4th year students may follow include courses in Home Nursing, Motor Mechanics, First Aid.

Frosh Invade Outremont For Salvage

Refreshments and Dance Will Follow at R.V.C.

Accompanied by a police escort, and preceded by a band and McGill banners, over three hundred Frosh will parade from the University campus to Fletcher's Field tomorrow evening prior to the salvage campaign in Outremont.

The parade is scheduled to begin at six o'clock, but Freshmen are asked to be on hand at five-thirty to prevent delay. The men will meet at the Union, while the Freshettes gather at R.V.C. Marching in two's from these starting points, they will join forces on the campus, and proceed along University to Pine. The Scarlet Key and Red Wings will act as stewards of the parade; in full dress regalia they will march on either side of the line of Freshmen.

Groups Are Assigned

Upperclassmen, who will act as captains for the collection, will be stationed in their cars along the lane beside Molson Stadium. To each of these captains will be assigned a group of eight to ten Frosh, according to the number participating in the campaign. Every house in Outremont will be canvassed during the evening for salvage of all kinds.

This drive is similar in its organization to the aluminum campaign sponsored in early September by some of the students. Like the former campaign, it is designed to form part of a larger program of participation in the war effort. The students are undertaking these drives under the sanction of the National Salvage Committee.

According to Glen Cowan, president of the Students Society, the salvage drive will "serve to build up a unified spirit among the undergraduate body, as well as provide a further indication of McGill's participation in the war effort." The government, he said, has provided what is virtually a leave of absence to many students at the

SCM Plans Frosh Party

Strathcona Hall Scene of Initial Conversat

The S.C.M.'s annual effort, on behalf of freshmen, to help break the initial ice of friendliness, will be held at Strathcona Hall on Tuesday at 8:15.

The feature entertainment at this year's Conversat was announced as "intercollegiate sports." How intercollegiate sports are to be conducted within the limits of the hall is a subject of conjecture and no further details were forthcoming from Brenda Wilson, chairman of the entertainment committee. Other activities of the evening which are less cloaked in mystery include dancing to the music of a nickelodeon, and games designed to facilitate a friendly atmosphere. Refreshments will be served.

All newly arrived students are invited and they are reminded that their distinguishing green cravats and hair bows will serve a useful purpose as a means of identification of their student rank.

FRESHMEN

All freshmen who have not yet registered with the Freshman Registration Committee must report to either Glenn Cowan or Bill Munroe in the McGill Union today from 12.00 to 2.00 p.m. Green ties will be given to all freshmen who have not yet received them.

Plumbers Overjoyed By Coeds In Architecture

The number of coeds in the School of Architecture has increased to nine. Tony Lewis, President of the Architectural Undergraduate Society, favoring the movement, summed it up with, "The more coeds the merrier." Should the coeds be molested by the Engineers, he advised them to report it to the Secretary of the Engineers Undergraduate Society, saying, "Remember her election platform—to protect the Engineers from attack from the outside." One prominent Plumber feels that our coed will lead the Society on to greater things though... "will her face be red when we discuss plans for the Engineers' Banquet..."

Frosh Service To Be Held

Professor Cragg Will Be Guest Speaker Sunday

Plans for the Freshmen Chapel Service being given under the auspices of the Students Council and the Freshman Reception Committee, Sunday evening at 7.30 in Divinity Hall have been nearly completed.

Glenn Cowan, the President of the Students' Society, who is to conduct the service, announced today that Gerald Cragg, Professor of Statistics at United Theological College will give the address, the subject of which will be given later.

The Students' Council, the Freshman Reception Committee and the various campus religious organizations assisting in the event are attempting to bring to all the Freshmen "the question of religious endeavor and its place in our campus life."

Divinity Hall is situated on the west side of University street directly above Milton street.

Freshmen of all denominations are urged to attend.

Set Date for Charity Drive

Council Appeals For Federation In November

McGill's own charity drive will be held from the third to tenth of next month, it was announced last night after a meeting of the Students' Council. Separate and independent from all other such appeals, the Amalgamated Charities Campaign is a joint drive by three organizations.

It was decided by the Students' Council some years ago that the three charities—the Federated, the Catholic and the Jewish—would receive more generous response if united. Every student will be canvassed and all are asked to contribute.

The management of the campaign is in the hands of a director appointed by the Council. This student will choose representatives in the various faculties, and they will organize faculty drives.

Book Exchange Opens For Old Text Books

The Book Exchange will be open for the purpose of taking in books from to-morrow, Oct. 3, until Monday, Oct. 6 inclusive. The hours are from 8.45 A.M. until 3 P.M. The Exchange is located in the basement of the Union.

Next Wednesday the Exchange will be open for the purpose of selling books from 8.45 in the morning on until the closing time.

The texts for the lower years in Arts and Science and Engineering are in greatest demand. Such books as those used in the French and German departments have not been printed in Canada and therefore it is requested that all students hand in their old books in order to give the new students a chance to obtain these books.

Melvin Donald Speaks Here

Will Address Frosh at T.V.C.F. Tea Sunday

All Freshmen and Freshettes have been invited to attend the informal tea being sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in the McGill Union on Sunday, October 5 at 4.30 p.m. Mr. Melvin Donald of Toronto will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Donald was a Gold Medalist in Commerce at the University of Alberta in 1937. Throughout his undergraduate days he was a student leader in the Fellowship of that University, and during the past few years, while in business, he has headed the entire work of the Fellowship in Edmonton. He is now the assistant General Secretary for the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in Canada. Arlene Scott, I.V.C.F. representative on the Freshman Reception Committee, stated that a hearty invitation is extended to all newcomers.

After the tea, freshmen and freshettes will be free to attend the Freshman Chapel Service to be held in Divinity Hall at 7.30 p.m. To provide a melodic conclusion to the evening, the I.V.C.F. invites all freshmen and freshettes to the first of their bi-weekly hymn-sings at 9.00 p.m. These hymn-sings are to be held at the new Student House of the McGill Christian Fellowship at 3445 Peel street.

Osler Society Meeting Held

Papers Read By F. L. McConnell And P. Jacques

The Osler Society held its first meeting of the year last night in the Osler Library of the Medical Building. Dr. J. C. Simpson, former Dean of Medicine, presented his valuable Charles Darwin collection to the library. There were also two papers presented by Fred McConnell and P. Jacques.

The first paper of the evening by Fred McConnell was entitled: "Some Common Neurological Signs with Historical Notes." It gave the findings of such men as Argyll Robertson, Horner, Hughlings Jackson and Babinski in the fields of Clinical Neurology.

The second paper was read by P. Jacques on "A Short History of Pathology." This was a discussion of the important men in the field of pathology. Such names as Morgagni, Val Salva and Virchow were mentioned.

UPPER CLASSMEN

Any Upper Classmen who have cars will be rewarded by admission to the R.V.C. Dance tomorrow night if they will provide transportation for the McGill Salvage Campaign. Get in touch with Glenn Cowan or Bob Kingsland at the McGill Union between 5.30 and 8.00 tonight.

Frosh Meet Today At First Freshman Reception Events

Freshman Smoker Features Free Smokes, Cokes

Tonight at 8.15, the Freshman Smoker is being held in the Ballroom in the Union.

As it is the first event of a social nature that the freshmen at McGill participate in, the Freshman Reception Committee plans to give the newcomers something to remember throughout their college careers. In the past the program has been so arranged that the various aspects of life at McGill are explained in full detail at the Smoker.

Stewart Willis, President of the Union, has supervised the general outlines of the evening's entertainment. Free smokes and cokes will be supplied. Green ties will be worn by all bona fide freshmen, who will turn up at 690 Sherbrooke St. W., on time for this their first get-together.

Founder Will Speak

John T. Hackett, K.C., founder of McGill Students' Society and first President of the Council, will be the main speaker of the evening. He is a well known lawyer in Montreal, and has served as a Governor of the University as well as a President of the Graduate Society.

Glenn K. Cowan, the head of the Students' Executive Council will tell the audience about the entertainment that is being offered to them. He will elaborate upon the reports that were published in the Students' "Bible" and the "dailies" of the past days.

The Scarlet Key Society will take care that no gate-crashers are allowed beyond the entrances to the room. They will thereby give the freshman audience an idea of their duties. But, in order to prevent any misconceptions of their function on the Campus, there will be a representative from the Key to clarify the issue.

To date, the "Daily" has been appearing, and the freshmen have been reading what information it contains without gaining a personal view-point about journalistic endeavours. The "Daily's" Editor-in-Chief, will explain the responsibilities and privileges of a Daily reporter. The Chairman of the evening, Stewart Willis, will reveal the facilities that the McGill Union offers to all undergraduates. He will explain the parts of the Union that freshettes are allowed to use, and the times that they are allowed to go to these rooms. It is only within recent years that freshettes have been allowed any rights in the Union.

Discuss Union

The function of the Union Cafeteria will be explained and any change in the policy of the management will be made clear. The present executive of the Union is planning to implement the use of the union by all undergrads as a social

Doctor Roscoe To Welcome Freshies at Tea

The annual Freshie-Junior Tea, first official social function at R.V.C., takes place this afternoon at four o'clock in the Drawing Room in the left wing of the building. In an informal atmosphere, with the green-ribboned Freshies squatting on the floor, Dr. Roscoe, the Warden of the Residence, will extend to the Frosh an official welcome to R.V.C. Sylvia Grove, the President of the McGill Women Students' Athletic Association, will also give brief addresses of welcome.

The Freshettes will arrive in the company of their Juniors. If any have not been assigned a Junior, they are not forced to stay away. On the contrary, they are told they must come, for it is their opportunity to become acquainted with the others. The Juniors have been making the newcomers familiar with the campus and the city, ironing out their difficulties in registering, and bringing them into contact with other students.

Meet Tutors

The four new tutors on the Residence staff, Miss Madeleine Frances, Miss Gwen Tobey, Miss Dorothy Osborne, and Miss Francis Lauret along with Miss Munro and Mrs. Tyrrell, the instructors of physical education at R.V.C., will be introduced to the Freshies. These teachers desire the Freshettes to know that they wish to hear of their problems and help to solve them.

The purpose of the Tea is to bring home to the Freshies the fact that the Royal Victoria College is the real headquarters of the women students at McGill, that it should be used as a centre of recreation to the same extent that the McGill Union is by the men, and that it is a good place to study. Of equal importance is the design to bring the Freshettes into a closer intimacy with Dr. Roscoe and her staff. The new students will be taken around the Residence, shown the Common Room with its library of current books, the library upstairs that contains all the English texts and many other readily available reference books that serve as a necessary supplement to various courses, and also shown the gymnasium where the military training classes are held.

and recreational centre. The reading rooms have been used as a general lounge and bridge locale. At McGill there are many clubs for purpose of studying enlarged and variegated aspects of the courses given. Among these clubs are the Political Economy Club and the Historical Society. They are given the right to use the facilities of the Union if they so desire.

Around the Globe

Canadian War Effort

The government has announced the curtailment of production in non-essential consumer goods, such as radios and refrigerators, to 75 per cent. of the 1940 output in order to conserve steel and to release men for labor in war industries. Gasoline prices were raised one cent in eastern Canada to meet the retailers increasing cost. The government's policy is an attempt to restrict consumption of luxury articles—a policy which is fundamental in total war.

Inside Europe

The Germans executed two Czech generals while "a people's tribunal" condemned General Alois Elias, a former premier, to death. The conquered peoples of Europe will sabotage the German war effort as best they can, but to visualize a general rebellion, and depend upon it, is sheer folly. The strength of British and Russian arms must in the end defeat Hitler.

Mighty Entente

In a three-day conference, Great Britain, Russia and the United States settled problems of war materials and supplies to the mutual satisfaction of these powers. If the Russians were satisfied it must be obvious to everyone that the millenium has been reached.

Calling All Reporters... The Old and the New

This is the second issue of regular publication, and the Daily has 99 more to go before the end of the session.

99 issues means that many words, many stories, articles and columns must be written—it means that a large staff of reporters and feature writers will be needed.

Whether you can write or whether you think you can't, come down to the Daily Office and talk it over. We're willing and able to train you. The Daily has plenty of room for 100 new men and women on the staff—why not break into print? Don't worry about the amount of time involved. It only takes one night a week.

We're looking, too, for those of last year's staff who haven't as yet come down to the office to see what's what and what's new. We've got to need you all in the year ahead.

The Daily Office, in the basement of the McGill Union, will be open from eleven to seven today, tomorrow and Monday, for registration of new reporters.

Around the Campus

Today: Freshman smoker in the McGill Union, 690 Sherbrooke St., at 8.15. An informal gathering with a few words from campus leaders and the founder of the Students' Society.

For Freshettes—Don't forget to attend the Tea in R.V.C. at 4.00, whether you have a "Junior" or not.

Tomorrow: Aluminum campaign in Outremont for the McGill Salvage Drive—a Freshman affair with an informal gathering afterward in the R.V.C. Gym.

Don't forget that tomorrow is the deadline for R.T.B. registrations.

Sunday: IVCF Tea at 4.30 in the McGill Union and Freshman Chapel Service at 7.30 in Divinity Hall.

Monday: Founder's Day convocation at the Gym.

Tuesday: The SCM Conversat in Strathcona Hall—a get-acquainted party and dance for all Freshmen.

Wednesday: Engineering and Medical hold open house in the respective buildings.

BY YEHUDY

Prof. Smart Alec,

McGill.

My dear, dear Professor,

O.K. So you flunked me. So what?

You think you're clever, don't you? May I disagree with you on that point? Permit me to offer some figures in support of my argument.

I've been going to school for fifteen years. That's a long time to be going to school, ain't it? There are two particularly significant things about the duration of my formal education. One is that I must be pretty good to be allowed to go on, year after year, fifteen times. It means that not only do I have the intelligence to do the work, but also and especially that I actually do it. The other point is that during the span of all those years I came into contact with many teachers. You know what I did the other day? You'll probably laugh at me for going through all the trouble, but I can assure that the result was a highly soothing antidote to the dose of educational frustration you attempted to inject in me. I counted the number of teachers and professors I have had since I first went to school. Do you know how many I was able to record? One hundred and six (106)! Over a period of fifteen years, I studied under one hundred and six educators—AND NEVER ONCE FAILED!

I must congratulate you on your independence of judgment.

I took that stinky course of yours because it was the only one that could fit into my schedule. Don't for a moment flatter yourself by thinking that I took it because I thought I would like it. On the contrary, I had a hunch it would be morbid—student's intuition. You did nothing towards proving that hunch of mine baseless. Yes, you told us a lot of jokes, and you laughed at them, and so did we—heartily (what else could we have done?)—and you invited us to tea, and we had to balance tea-cups on our knees, and the cookies were delicious, but the course itself... Why do you give it?

Admittedly, I didn't work for it. I couldn't possibly be stimulated into doing that. I'll never forget the hours of agony I wasted jotting down your notes—and then there was re-reading them. Ugh! I crammed good and hard the last two days before the final. I read two whole books, page for page, line for line, word for word. Then came the exam in which you expected me to re-write those books for you.

So you flunked me. You thought I would spend the summer studying, studying, studying. How! How! Those daylong swims in the lake were swell! (Why should I tell him that that typewriter in that stuffy office under that impossible boss was hell?) Very, very refreshing and revitalizing those swims were. I feel like a new man now.

By the way, what texts am I required to read for your course?

I wouldn't have minded the supp, only it burned me up when a proletarian like me had to dish out ten bucks to a capitalist like you—for an exam! I guess it's no use kicking. Such are the fundamental evils of our social structure.

I took your supp, Professor Smart Alec. So what? So you are satisfied now! (Why should I tell him I'm afraid that another fundamental social evil is to be committed next May?) O.K. Gloat over it. Go ahead. Have your little fun.

Disrespectfully yours,

YEHUDY.

(His mark.)

P.S. (Incidentally, why should I tell you that nobody flunked me last year?)

musical notes

With Desire Defauw, the eminent Belgian conductor as permanent director Les Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal will provide in its coming season a continuous musical experience. Montreal concertgoers have rarely if ever enjoyed in the past. Defauw will conduct all but one of the ten scheduled concerts of the local organization; Sir Ernest Macmillan, the Canadian conductor will appear as guest baton-wielder at the sole concert Defauw will miss. Guest soloists during the season are Joseph Sziget, celebrated violinist, Emanuel Feuerman, the cellist, Arthur Leblanc, violinist, Artur Rubinstein, pianist, and Alexander Kipnis, famed basso of the Metropolitan.

First concert in the series will be presented October 21 with concerts every two weeks thereafter until March 21.

Plans for the Montreal Orchestra season will be passed along as soon as received.

ALEC TEMPLETON IN RECITAL.

Alec Templeton famed for his serious piano interpretations as well as his musical parodies will be heard in recital in Plateau Hall tonight in a concert in aid of charitable work of the Junior League of Montreal.

The serious portion of Mr. Templeton's recital is to consist of works by Beethoven, Chopin, Bach and Debussy. The concert will also contain several of the musical satires for which Mr. Templeton is justly popular.

The uncle, who had sent his nephew a considerable sum of money to purchase a lot for building a home for his new bride, was proudly escorted to the site of the home-to-be. To his dismay, however, the lot was one of the poorest in the section of town, which, incidentally, was about a half-hour's drive from the city proper.

"Whatever induced you to buy a lot in this God-forsaken community?" Inquired the indignant uncle.

"The best real estate salesman in the business," was the shy answer.

Maximum Aid

(From The Dartmouth.)

When the dusty swirl of Hitler's tanks appeared over the western boundary of Soviet Russia, the incalculable boldness of the Nazis staggered the world. This was a move unexplained by NBC microphone strategists, as well as by British Intelligence headquarters; this was a move like that which had changed Napoleon's dreams to nightmares; this was a move that stunned the great white gods of Washington, D.C., into a new scurrying of confusion and inactivity, this was a move that slowed America in her already slow war decisions.

When the careful speeches of government officials glossed over a reversal in attitude toward Red Russia, and flipping their coin they decided on the lesser of two evils, they took action, the action of barrels of spoken words but not one case of guns.

The buffer states shook with the impact of the war's beginning on June 22. Not until July 8 was the sharp decision of America's occupation of Iceland broadcast to the world. Only in the middle of July did negotiations for the stricken country begin to take a practical form, and finally on July 30 Harry Hopkins, public envoy No. 1, reached Moscow.

The precious weeks went by, bought with the drip of peasant blood in Russian soil, while at first American thinking struggled in the throes of over-optimism as to the ability of the men from the northern steppes to survive the savage plunders of panzer divisions. The middle of summer, with its slow yielding wall of "scorched earth," brought complacency to the Allies and to America, which merged into over-optimistic estimation of the Red army.

Not until August 15 was the joint Roosevelt-Churchill promise of "the very maximum aid" announced, and almost a full month passed before the American share of the joint commission to Moscow was ready to leave. The first tanker of gasoline reached Vladivostok on September 4, after creeping past Japanese hesitation, and not until September 16 did the Iceland patrol receive its orders to "shoot on sight."

Our policy has been the change from over-optimism to over-optimism regarding Russia. We have hesitated, inched ahead, balked, blundered into inaction and indecision, while the valuable days go by. Now with the iron garrote of gray-green troops about to strangle the Crimea, mighty Kiev fallen, Leningrad suburbs penetrated by alien snipers, Washington hums with discussion and tankers linger at their berths. Since June 22 we have been given the chance to throw our aid to Russia and help hold the invaders back. We have been given the chance to clear the seas of piracy and weld a bridge to Britain. We have had the possible opportunity, by aiding Russia, to defeat the threat of Prussian arms and end a world war.

The first specific gleam of the extent of our shipments came a week ago from the extremely vague and uncertain newspaper sources of: "It was learned reliably in Washington today that approximately 300 American warplanes have been delivered to the Soviet Union." A summer's battle has reduced a force of 20,000 airplanes to 5,000 and America leisurely sends a handful of reinforcements, for some reason through the slow path of a London waystation.

Perhaps the Washington sources can explain why the planes were delayed in London, when in the same article occurs, "There are five routes by which war supplies can be sent to the Soviet Union by the United States and Britain, both of which are pledged to help the Russians to the fullest possible extent."

Parallel to the information on our careful, little help to Russia, huge headlines say, "Britain getting 850,000 tons of supplies a week." What can be the explanation of the discrepancy in flow of munitions to two nations involved in the same bitter struggle against the same brutal and repugnant creed?

Carefully modulated voices in our country's capital attempt to soothe the growing impatience against delay by saying, "It is expected that the log jam will be broken as soon as formal negotiations about meeting the Soviet supply problem begin." Negotiations and discussions drag their fruitless way...

Meanwhile, we carry in our fearful minds the truth of what Dorothy Thompson says: "The question of whether Russia will make a separate peace with Germany if the panzer divisions push much further, depends wholly on the United States, its aid and intentions."

While there is still time, while the threat of winter hangs close over the dangerous tundra, let us act, let us send tanks to the Stalin line, let us send aviation gasoline to Vladivostok, let us arm the Russian peasant, and in so doing push the threat of a Nazi world in oblivion. We plead for the instant crushing decision of our democracy.

Oley, the Swede, had come to America seeking golden opportunity and freedom from the class yoke which his type wore.

Landing a job with the street department in a large eastern city, Oley soon gained the respect of his co-workers for his industry and initiative, and soon was called Mr. Oley.

The boys got him initiated into a lodge and it became Brother Oley. This was beyond his wildest dream of success. When he was made an officer in the lodge it was the Honorable Brother Oley, and Oley's swelling ego prepared itself for greater things.

Wondering what advancement came next, Oley strolled into church one Sunday a few minutes late. As the usher took him down the aisle, his fondest dreams came true—for Oley heard the congregation standing and singing "Oley, Oley, Oley—Lord God Almighty."

Sports Call To Freshmen

All Students, Experienced Or Not, Invited

All Athletic managers, Company and Faculty Sports Representatives are anxious for the support and active participation of freshmen in the sports life of the University. They are only too willing to give all the information or assistance they can to the freshmen or new students in the selection of their athletic activity.

General announcements will be made regarding the various sports through the McGill Daily, Notice Boards and Sports Representatives. When an appeal is forwarded in any of these ways, for participation in any sport in which students are interested, or in which they would like to become interested, they are urged not to hesitate to turn out at the appointed time and place.

VARIETY OFFERED

All sports are open to every student, regardless of his experience or ability. At the present time, lists for the Tennis Tournament are posted on the Notice Boards, to be signed by entrants. The point distribution stresses the desire for the largest entry list possible, rather than a great number of experts. Football practices are being held

HELP WANTED

Wanted at once for one evening a week all freshmen and freshies with an interest in sports. Compensation—a hell of a lot of fun. No previous experience necessary. Apply in person (preferably in sober condition) to the Sports Editor, in the murky depths of the Union basement, from 12 to 1 p.m. daily.

Gridmen Run And Pass in Fast Session

Coch Directs Players Through Training Paces

Yesterday evening saw 45 enthusiastic gridiron gladiators capering around the Molson Stadium, scene of so many dramatic football tussles, and getting into fighting trim for the intramural contests, which are due to get under way within the next few weeks. The set up is expected to be either on an inter-company basis, or if enough players for this type of league are lacking, the teams will be organized as they were last year, that is, into a three or four team circuit.

Coch Johnny Cloghessy had the lads going through a light scrimmage and signal drill yesterday, and his charges were showing a lot of pep and no small amount of ability in their activities. A visitor at last night's work out was Buster Fletcher, who is expected to resume his coaching activities in the very near future.

DECIDE ON OUTSIDE GAMES

Tomorrow evening the Student's Athletic Council will meet to decide whether or not local teams are to be played in exhibition tilts. As all intercollegiate tilts have been ruled out by the Senate, students would rally to a game where the Red Team would be in action. The showing at last year's Black Watch-McGill hockey clash was evidence of student interest in their Alma Mater's sporting activities.

There have been many newcomers to the gridiron this year, but there is room for anybody who has a desire to play. The number of teams that are formed will depend on the number of candidates, and everyone is assured plenty of action. Freshmen have always formed the backbone for these teams, and it is expected that they will maintain their representation this year.

Practices are held from 4.30 to 7 p.m. every afternoon, with all equipment supplied. Those who wish to join the squad and get into shape are requested to apply at the Field House at the west end of the Stadium.

Among the veterans of last season's grid campaign, were such seasoned players as Read, Stronach, Smith, Keay, Rapelje, Young and many others. Other old hands are invited to join in this year's tussles.

Entries Due Saturday for Net Tourney

Courts Available Every Day for Students' Practice

Entry lists are now posted in all campus buildings for the coming men's Tennis Tournament to get underway Monday, October 6. The tourney, as last year, will be run on an inter-company basis, with points awarded in such a way as to give due credit to the companies with the largest entry lists.

This year, a men's doubles tourney has been introduced to supplement the usual singles. The Dr. Martin Cup is awarded to the singles champion, who receives a small replica of the trophy for permanent possession. Although the seeded lists are headed by well-known figures in Dominion and Provincial competition, the distribution of one point to the loser of each match (if he appears) and two to the winner, gives the less expert players an excellent chance of helping their company.

The campus courts are available to all registered students for practice, daily from 9:00 a.m. It is emphasized that the lists should be filled out as completely as possible, to facilitate the running of the matches. Students should find out, as soon as possible, to which company they will belong, or signify this on the entry list, as best they can.

The drawing will take place on Saturday, and those selected for Monday will be informed by telephone. Since the weather necessitates a short season, entrants should co-operate by completing their matches as promptly as possible.

Hardwick in Charge

Tom Hardwick, who is in charge of the campaign, has stated that the forthcoming drive, which is to be held in Outremont, a section of the city containing many French, will help to build up the cordial relations existing between the two language groups of the country, by bringing English-speaking students in contact with their French-Canada compatriots.

It was further stated that the last drive held in N.D.G. was a great success not only because of the scrap collected, but also because of the spirit which was aroused among the students and the citizenry.

"What makes you think she doesn't like you?" "She told me she thought there was a fool in every family." "Well, what of it?" "I'd told her a few minutes before that I was an only child."
